

At Priestley, Greater Depth is all about giving the children the opportunity to 'master' their understanding of key concepts and ideas. So, when we talk about Greater Depth, we are talking about mastery of an objective, topic or subject

Greater Depth Historians

Will show:

- Independence – Apply the skills and knowledge without the recall of the teacher e.g. making a conscious decision about how to present their learning.
- Fluency– Apply the skill and knowledge with a high level of confidence and show good resilience when the task seems demanding e.g. sharing historical knowledge aloud in a group.
- Application – Freedom of choice of how to apply the skill and knowledge to a range of different contexts, including other areas of the curriculum – e.g. creating a timeline linking to other subjects.
- Consistency– Consistently use their skills, knowledge and understanding e.g. be able to use facts learnt within a few different sessions.
- Link It– Organise ideas to make connections with other areas of learning and new ideas e.g. when talking about geography, linking in an understanding of where different civilisations were.
- Re-visit It – Return to this aspect of learning after a break and still feel confident that they can work on the skill and knowledge without difficulty.
- Explain It–Able to explain their understanding to others and perhaps be a learning buddy to others. Be able to discuss a range of different time periods with their peers.

As teachers we will...

- Provide opportunities by offering a range of resources and materials.
- Question, and challenge will be differentiated and open ended to extend thinking.

Greater Depth Learners in History will demonstrate a deep understand of different periods. They will be able to make clear comparisons between them, as well as being able to explain the impact it had on the future. Children will be able to share and display their work in a variety of ways (of their own choosing), thinking about which would be most appropriate.

At Priestley, we believe children with SEND are those that have learning difficulties or disabilities that make it harder for them to learn than most children of the same age. These children may need extra or different help from that given to other children of the same age.

SEND Historians

Will be able to:

- explore and achieve in line with their peers through being able to access a range of purposeful activities tailored to individual need.

As teachers we will...

- always set suitable learning challenges.
- modify the curriculum to remove barriers, so all pupils meet the same objectives e.g. use plenty of visual support.
- constantly review any possible environmental barriers to achievement such as sound, light & seating plans.
- show an awareness of pupils preferred learning styles
  - when teaching - visual, tactile, auditory and kinaesthetic approaches are used, such as supporting teacher talk with visual aids; using subtitled or audio-described film/video
  - for recording – alternatives to written recording are offered, e.g. drawing, scribing, word processing, mind maps, digital images, video, voice recording.
  - to promote security and aid organisation – e.g. visual timetables are used to show plans for the day or lesson; visual prompts for routines, such as how to ask for help; shared signals are developed so that pupils can convey their understanding, uncertainty or need for help.
  - Pair children up with somebody who may be able to provide them with support.
